Teachers, Parents, and Students – Together for Success

In the Classroom

Teachers will work with students and their families to support students' success in reading fluency, comprehension, and all mathematical concepts. Some of our key connections will be:

- Lead students in guided reading groups
- Provide students with a book and reading response activity
- Develop an understanding of all operations, as well as strategies for accurate computation.
- Share strategies.
- Provide math methods resources and examples through web access and math homework.

At Home

SRES families joined staff to develop ideas about how families can support students' success. Here are ways you can support learning:

- Read to and with your child and complete the reading response activity.
- Practice & discuss strategies with your child.
- Read and follow provided math methods resources and examples to follow Common Core standards.
- Talk about the importance of attending school everyday.
- Provide necessary materials needed for school and ensure your child is prepared daily.

What is a School-Parent Compact?

A School-Parent Compact for Achievement is an agreement that parents, students and teachers develop together through collaboration and feedback. It explains how parents and teachers will work together to make sure all our students reach grade-level standards.

Working Together:

SRES students joined staff to develop ideas about how they can succeed in school both in and out of the classroom.

Students thought of the following ideas:

- Set goals for myself and work hard to achieve them during the year
- Study and do my homework
- Follow directions, stay focused, and listen to my parents and my teachers.
