TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN;

The purpose of this booklet is to make available to you as much information as possible regarding special education referral and/or information retrieval services. This booklet provides its users with lists of telephone numbers and addresses of resources available to persons who are concerned with persons with disabilities.

By no means should this booklet be considered as a complete list of all services available in the Central Savannah Regional Area (CSRA). If you know of a service that has been omitted or has been misprinted, please mail the information to: East Georgia Learning Resource System, 864 Broad Street, Augusta, GA., 30901. The information may also be faxed to 1-706-826-4624. Our database will be updated as new information is received. The booklet will be revised periodically.

We hope that this booklet will be helpful to you. If we can ever be of service to you, please feel free to call upon us.

Sincerely,

Dr. Jessie B. Stewart and Dr. Kathryn Ellis

CHILD FIND TEACHER ALERT

THE FOLLOWING IS A LIST OF OBSERVABLE BEHAVIORS. THEY ARE WARNING SIGNS OF LEARNING PROBLEMS.

If you have students in your class who exhibit any of these characteristics, please discuss this with the parents of the child, his/her principal and consider a referral to your Student Support Team.

Possible Indicators of Disabling Conditions

SIGHT

- The student frequently complains that his/her head or eyes hurt.
- The eyelids of the student are red, watery, puffy and encrusted.
- The eyes of the student appear to be crossed or do not seem to focus on the same point.
- The student holds his/her head in an awkward or tilted position when reading or working.
- The student copies from the board with difficulty.
- The student sits on the front row and still has difficulty seeing the board.

HEARING

- The student talks loudly during normal conversations.
- The student has difficulty understanding direction or does not respond to direct questions.
- The student complains that his/her ear aches or that liquid runs from his/her ear.
- When listening, the student always turns the same ear to the person talking.
- The student has serious speech difficulties.

SPEECH AND LANGUAGE

- The speech of the student is difficult to understand.
- The student consistently substitutes or omits particular sounds in his/her speech.
- The student speaks in a halting manner and appears to have difficulty in remembering appropriate words and in organizing his/her response correctly.
- The student has difficulty in understanding verbal directions.

SOCIAL SKILLS

- The student has difficulty observing rules during group games or is often involved in conflict on the playground and/or recess, and in small group situations.
- The student is very reluctant to interact with others.
- The student cannot function successfully without adult supervision or support.
- The student is hostile to and aggressive with others.

PLAY

- At the age of 1, the child is unable to play infant games such as “peek-a-boo”.
- Between the ages of 2 and 3, the child is unable to imitate adults doing simple tasks.
- At the age of 3, the child is unable to play alone with toys.
- At the age of 4, the child is unable to play group games such as “hide-and-seek” or to understand taking turns.

- At the age of 5, the child is unable to play competitive games, express sympathy or concern, and does not play “pretend/show-off” activities once in a while. At the age of 6, the child has problems in the understanding of “fair play”; he/she is unable to participate in simple table games and is unable to plan and build constructively or to cross the street safely.

THINKING

- At the age of 1, the child is unable to respond to a call by looking directly at an adult; he/she cannot recognize simple problems such as finding an object that has been hidden under a cup.
- At the age of 2, the child is unable to identify body parts or to match like objects; he/she is unable to recognize himself/herself in a mirror.
- At the age of 3, the child is unable to recognize his/her own name and/or is unable to use familiar objects.
- At the age of 4, the child is unable to name colors; he/she is unable to tell of an action in a picture and is unable to count to 2.
- At the age of 5, the child is unable to make simple comparisons—which is heavier, which is lighter—is unable to count up to 4, and has a problem in understanding time sequence such as “yesterday,” “today,” and “tomorrow.”
- At the age of 6, the child is unable to distinguish left from right, to understand size and weight relationships, to count to 6 and/or to understand numbers to 10.

MOTION

- At the age of 1, the child cannot sit without support, pull himself/herself to a standing position, reach for objects or pick up objects with a pincer grasp.
- At the age of 2, the child is unable to walk alone, to kick a large ball, to scribble or to build a tower with 3 blocks.
- At the age of 3, the child cannot walk up or down stairs, pedal a tricycle, run without falling, turn the pages of a book, copy circles, or draw a cross mark.
- At the age of 4, the child cannot balance on one foot, jump from the bottom step, catch a bounced ball, close a fist and wiggle a thumb or trace a diamond shape.
- At the age of 5, the child is unable to turn somersaults, pump himself/herself on a swing, fold a paper triangle from a 4” square, print a few capital letters, or cut with scissors on a straight line.
- At the age of 6, the child cannot skip on alternate feet, jump rope, throw a ball 10 feet away so that it can be caught, print his/her first name, lace his/her shoes, and draw a person that includes a head, trunk, arms, and other features.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PARENTS OF EXCEPTIONAL CHILDREN

Every child with a disability has a unique level of functioning. It is important that a parent or guardian adjust the following instructions to fit the individual level of understanding of each child.

- Parents need to be creative in teaching a child safety tips—children will retain an instruction better if it is explained and demonstrated. Using different settings emphasizes some rules in effect.
- All children should be able to communicate their name; address, including city and state and zip code; and phone number, including the area code. For non-verbal or severely impaired children, a card, tag, or inscribed bracelet can be used. However, there should be an understanding that identification only be shown to an authorized adult.
- Do not place names or any other identification on the outside of books, clothes, or other personal items, as this is a way of letting strangers approach children with personal information.
- Teach your children never to admit to anyone over the phone that they are home alone and to call the police or a neighbor if someone tries to get into the house.
- Teach your children that a stranger is someone you and they do not know or a “bad” stranger asks children to go with him, offers them candy or presents, or asks them to keep a “secret”.
- Children should know they have a right to say “No”. They do not have to obey strangers.
- Your children should know that adults rarely ask children for directions and it is best to ignore people who do. If a person calls the child to a car, the child should never go near that car.
- Children in wheelchairs should refuse unnecessary requests to assist them with a polite, but firm statement that they can manage without assistance.
- Respect the reluctance of your child to be with someone that he/she does not feel comfortable with. Some children with disabilities may not be able to verbalize why.
- If your child is followed by someone that he/she does not know, either in a car or on foot, they should never go to a deserted place.
- Practice with your children what should be done in a variety of situations such as if they were to be separated from you. If you are shopping and become separated, your child should not look for you but he/she should be taught to go immediately to the nearest counter and ask for help. Always reinforce that they should not go to the parking lot without you.

NEWSPAPER ANNOUNCEMENTS

I. All children, ages 0-21, are entitled to a free education. This includes children with problems such as:

Behavioral
Emotional
Motor (physical)
Vision
Hearing
Speech and Language
Intellectual

It is the responsibility of the local school system to identify these children. Many of the children are not receiving services because they have NOT been identified. PLEASE help us locate them.

For more information, call your local special education director or the toll free Direction Center phone line sponsored by the State Department of Education through the Georgia Learning Resource System (GLRS). The toll free line is 1-800-282-7552. GLRS will provide assistance in making the referral to the county where the child resides.

II. All Children Deserve a Chance

Do you know any children from birth through age 21 who might have a physical (motor), mental, emotional, vision, hearing, speech/language problem who are not receiving services through their school system? No matter what the problem is, or its severity, these children are entitled to an education. The Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act (IDEA 2004) mandates that these services should be provided for all children who meet the eligibility requirements for special education and/or related services. PLEASE help up locate all children with disabilities who are NOT receiving special education services.

For more information, call your local special education director or the toll-free Georgia Direction Center at 1-800-282-7552.

*These announcements can be run as a public service announcement. Your newspaper will set the type to fit the available space.
