3. NEEDS IDENTIFICATION AND ROOT CAUSE ANALYSIS

3.1 Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Read the trends and patterns summaries from each section of the data analysis process. Use the information in these summaries to complete 3.2 and 3.3. Using the summaries in 3.1 and other local data, describe the strengths and challenges or answer the guiding questions for each program. Include strengths and challenges related to: a) general program implementation, and b) students and adults involved in or affected by the program. Focus on strengths and challenges that will assist in the identification of needs during 3.2. Watch the Identifying Need webinar for additional information and guidance.

teacher, and leader needs?	2. Personalized Learning: We will address the growing emphasis on personalized learning by collecting and analyzing data on student interests, learning styles, and progress. We can identify patterns and trends to customize instruction and support for each student.
	3. Technology Integration: The integration of technology in education provides opportunities to collect and analyze vast amounts of data. Learning management systems, educational apps, and digital tools generate valuable insights into student engagement, progress, and areas of difficulty. Analyzing this data will help us identify individual student needs and inform instructional decisions.

4. Professional Development: Analyzing data related to teacher performance, professional development, and instructional practices can reveal patterns and trends in areas where educators may require additional training and support. Identifying these needs can guide the design of relevant and effective professional development programs.
5. Equity and Inclusion: Analyzing data related to student demographics, achievement gaps, and discipline disparities will highlight patterns and trends related to equity and inclusion. This information can guide efforts to address systemic barriers, develop culturally responsive practices, and provide targeted support to marginalized students.
By examining these trends and patterns, we can gain valuable insights into the needs of students and teachers enabling them to make informed decisions and implement targeted interventions and support systems to foster academic growth, professional development, and overall success in educational settings.

	generated from digital platforms, adaptive learning systems, and online assessments, we can identify individual student needs and tailor instruction accordingly.
	3. Personalized and Differentiated Instruction: With a growing emphasis on personalized and differentiated instruction to meet the diverse needs of students, we will analyze data related to student interests, learning preferences, and prior knowledge, educators can identify patterns that inform the design of individualized learning experiences and targeted interventions.
	4. Professional Learning Communities (PLCs): We will provide opportunities for teachers to engage in ongoing professional development and share best practices. Analyzing data on student performance, instructional strategies, and teacher collaboration will help us uncover trends and patterns that guide targeted professional development initiatives and support teachers' instructional needs.
	5. Equity and Inclusion: Addressing equity gaps and fostering inclusive environments are important priorities. Analyzing data related to student achievement, disciplinary actions, and demographics can highlight patterns of inequity and inform targeted interventions to ensure all students have equal opportunities to succeed.

By considering these trends and patterns, we can gather insights into the needs of students and teachers. This information enables them to make informed decisions, implement evidence-based practices, and provide targeted support to foster growth, development, and equitable outcomes in education.

1. Social and Emotional Learning (SEL): Recognizing the importance of students' social and emotional well-being, there is an increasing focus on creating supportive learning environments. Analyzing data related to student social-emotional skills, well-being surveys, and behavior indicators can reveal trends and patterns that inform the implementation of effective SEL programs and support systems.
2. Positive Behavior Interventions and Supports (PBIS): PBIS is an approach that promotes positive behaviors and fosters a supportive school climate. Analyzing data on disciplinary actions, student behavior, and school climate surveys can identify trends and patterns that inform the implementation of proactive strategies, interventions, and targeted support for students.
3. School Climate and Culture: A positive school climate and culture are essential for a supportive learning environment. Analyzing data from student and staff surveys, as well as observations, can provide insights into the perceptions and experiences of the school community. Identifying trends and patterns in these data points can guide efforts to strengthen school climate and create a supportive environment.
4. Collaboration and Communication: Effective collaboration and communication among students, teachers, and leaders contribute to a supportive learning environment. Analyzing data related to collaboration structures, communication channels, and feedback mechanisms can help identify trends and patterns that inform improvements in communication practices and the establishment of collaborative processes.
5. Student Voice and Engagement: Empowering students and involving them in decision-making processes are important trends in education. Collecting and analyzing data on student engagement, feedback, and participation can identify trends and patterns that inform efforts to enhance student voice and engagement within the learning environment.

By considering these trends and patterns, educational stakeholders can gain insights into the needs of students, teachers, and leaders regarding a supportive learning environment. This information enables them to make informed decisions, implement evidence-based practices, and provide targeted support to create a nurturing and inclusive educational setting.

Demographic and Financial:Summarize the demographic and financial trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	 Our school is located in the rural part of the district such that resources are often limited. Our data indicates that most of our students are from single parent homes where income and resources are limited. Our data also indicates that our ESOL students don't participate in some filed trips and outside activities due to cultural barriers. By considering these trends and patterns, we have gained insights into the needs of students, teachers, and leaders regarding demographics and financial needs. This information enables us to develop targeted interventions, allocate resources effectively, and advocate for equitable practices and policies that support the success of all individuals in the educational community. Demographic Data Analysis: Analyzing demographic data such as student enrollment, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, language proficiency, and special education needs can provide insights into the diverse needs of students. Understanding these demographics helps identify patterns and trends that inform the development of targeted interventions and support systems to address specific student needs. Achievement and Opportunity Gaps: Analyzing data on student achievement and opportunity gaps across different demographic groups can reveal disparities in educational outcomes. Identifying these gaps helps inform equity-focused initiatives and interventions aimed at providing equal opportunities for all students, regardless of their demographic backgrounds. Culturally Responsive Practices: Recognizing the importance of cultural competence, there is a growing emphasis on implementing culturally opportunities for all students, regardless of their demographic backgrounds.
	4. Access to Resources: Analyzing data on resource allocation, such as funding, technology access, and educational materials, can reveal inequities in resource distribution. Understanding these patterns helps identify areas where additional support is needed to address financial disparities and ensure all students have equal access to necessary resources.

Student Achievement:Summarize the student achievement trends and patterns	Our data indicates that 46% of our students read below grade level. Our data indicates that 48% of our students perform below grade level in math.

2. SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT GOALS

2.2 Overarching Need # 2

Overarching Need

Overarching Need as identified in CNA Section 3.2	To increase the percentage of students performing on or above grade level in math
Root Cause # 1	Students are lacking the prerequisite foundational skills
Root Cause # 2	Lack of long-term commitment, consistency and buy-in from teachers to provide needed differentiation strategies
Goal	Utilize research based differentiated instructional practices and strategies to increase the percentage of K-5 students on or above grade level in Math by 25% by the end of the 2023-2024 school year as measured by the I-Ready Diagnostic assessment.
	(Sub-Goal). During the 2023-2024 school year, we will utilize research-based differentiated instructional practices and strategies to increase the percentage of Proficient & Distinguished 3rd, 4th, and 5th Grade Math EOG by 10% as measured by the Georgia Milestones Assessment. [SY 2021 (30.21%); SY 2022 (27.56%); SY 2023 (24.0%)]
