

Textbook Prices and Fines

Remember that all of this information only applies to barcoded textbooks that are in the Destiny library software system. Textbooks that are not barcoded will be handled the same way you've done it in years past.

As long as you have not issued barcoded texts to students without letting the media center know to put those checkouts in the system, you do not have to write fine slips for LOST texts. If, however, you have given barcoded books to students as they came in during the year using your own system, you will need to write a fine slip for each of those lost books with the barcode number included and give it to the media center so that that student will be held accountable for the cost. Our records are only as complete as our information. Anything checked out through the media center (including all books on the lists given to us earlier in the year) is already on the student record, so the fine will be automatically assigned if the book is not returned.

Before you come to turn in texts with your classes, you need to write fine slips for any DAMAGED texts. Below are prices for most texts belonging to ARC that are in the library system. Per district policy, you have two choices for damages to a textbook. If the book is damaged but still usable, the student can be charged $10.00. If the damages are so bad that you wouldn't want your child to use it, the fine is the cost of the text. Damaged books are to be left with the library staff to dispose of or repair.
