Teachers, Parents and Students– Together for Success

In The Classroom

CCHS teams will work with students and their families to support student's success in reading, language arts, and math. Some of the way to connect with the families are:

- Offer two curriculum night per year concentrating on describing geometrical figures and measuring surface area and volume.
- Provide parents with a home learning kit full of material dealing with geometrical shapes, compare and contrast of literary text.
- Provide a link on the school website to Edmodo which would give parents an opportunity to access and review strategies which can assist with assignments at home.

At Home

Cross Creek High School parents will join staff to develop ideas about how best for families can support students success in reading, language arts, math, science and social studies. Families may have other ideas to add to this list.

- Try to attend Family Literacy Nights, Math/ Science Nights, Parent Workshops, PTA meetings, and Parent/Teacher conferences.
- Use materials available in the Parent Resource Center that can be signed out and use at home.
- Create word games with new vocabulary words and find ways to use these words in family conversations.

Cross Creek Students

Cross Creek High School students will join staff and parents to develop ideas about how they can succeed in school. Some things to consider in making the connection between home and school.

- Monitor progress using Infinite Campus.
- Commit to graduate in four years with cohort and ask for help when needed.
- Bring home all correspondence related to school activities and events.
- Show respect for self , peers, and all adults.

When teachers, students and families are united together we can achieve!
