A Message from the Superintendent

Dear Richmond County School System Teachers of the Year,

It is my honor to recognize each of you for your dedication, energy, talent and the care that you show our students every day. It does not go unnoticed how you have put your heart into inspiring young minds to reach their highest potential.

Tonight, we celebrate you! You represent all of the teachers in your school and we are proud of your accomplishments. Our mission is building a world class school system through education, collaboration, and innovation. You are the “builders” and the foundation for all of the success in the Richmond County School System.

The Teacher of the Year Banquet brings all of us together to let you know how much we value you. Each person in this room is here for you! So enjoy each moment and know that you have our heartfelt thanks for the impact that you make in the lives of the students in Richmond County.

My best wishes,

Angela D. Pringle

Patrice Maybank

My name is Patrice Maybank and I am the mother of two daughters, Tareon and Jordan. I obtained an undergraduate degree in Early Childhood Education and have a Masters in Secondary Mathematics. I plan to continue my educational growth by pursuing a Specialist in Educational Leadership. I have been teaching for 10 years. I believe being a teacher is a challenging profession, however, the benefits that students receive make my efforts worth it. As a teacher, I have learned that I am more than just an educator to my students. I have become their doctor, counselor, disciplinarian, friend but most importantly, I became their "mother". Deciding to be a teacher was not about duties and responsibilities for me. I wanted to give students life experiences, knowledge and deposit the same joy of learning of academics and the Arts into them that I received from my own mother. Therefore, I treat each of my students as if they are my sons and daughters. As a teacher I am co-parenting with others in the development of a student. After years of love, care, nurturing and time our child graduates; and as a parent, there is nothing more rewarding.

Sallie Manning

My goals in teaching include using my business background as a bridge to relate content to student lives and potential experiences and to create a close community where the diversity of people, culture, thought and ideas are accepted, embraced and used to promote deeper thinking and learning. A classroom infused with energy and humor promotes that sense of community. Students should be challenged to think beyond the boundaries of their school and hometown in order to adopt a greater world view, and that is done more readily if they feel valued, accepted and part of family. It is my role as a teacher leader to create life-long learners and to help students develop critical thinking skills that will help them succeed academically, professionally and personally. This is imperative given the significant social, political and economic challenges of the world in which they live and will help shape. Our methods and activities must be consistently changing and fluid to promote fellowship, and, if we are not learning or growing, we are performing less than we expect of our students. My school and students are my community and my family, and I am so happy they are here with me tonight.

Thaddeaus Mohler

My journey into education began as a teaching assistant at Peter H. Craig in 1989. From those early days I realized I was in a position to help children realize that education was a vehicle which could take them to any place they wanted to go in life. Today, I feel just as strongly, and it is my continuing duty to inspire my students to realize that education is a way to soar to higher heights, jump over the moon, and to reach out to embrace the stars. My students are the reasons for which I work very hard. They are the center of my educational world, and they are the reasons that I am so passionate about this profession. Each year, I tell my students that I am adopting them for life. I tell them they are my children, and I will always be there for them. I have been able to be a mentor, a friend, a counselor, a role model, and an educator to thousands of students. I am humbled that I have been able to touch so many lives. To me, there is no greater profession in the world! I am truly blessed.

Angela Rhea

As a teacher I see myself assisting students as they begin to take a more active role in constructing their own knowledge from my lessons. In order to prepare my students for the real world, I must show them that they can use their intuition, knowledge, and confidence as their guide to find answers to the problems we face as a society. My students often ask questions that are difficult to answer. However, we add those questions to our classroom board to remind us of them, and as time permits, we search for the answers we desire. I believe that students must understand most of the answers to life's important questions are not found in a book; however, the answers they need are within their grasp. If they are taught to take risks, challenge the status quo, and develop their own paradigm for success, I believe we have done our best as educators. I am honored to represent Blythe Elementary as their Teacher of the Year and proud to be one of the top five finalists for the Richmond County School System.

Samantha Booker

"When a flower doesn't bloom, you fix the environment in which it grows, not the flower." –Alexander Den Heijer

My personal belief about teaching is that all children deserve an environment that promotes growth and learning, just as the flower that requires sunlight and water. My students are given the expectation to strive for progress and not perfection. As an educator I find joy and success in serving and helping others. I don't just aspire in this career to make a living. My aspiration in this career is to make a difference and not to just make a living. I often times say that you only live once, so do what you feel passionately about. I realized that I have the most powerful weapon to change the world. As Nelson Mandela said, "Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world." Since I can remember the "spark" has always been there to become an educator and transform the way our youth think each time they enter my classroom. As an educator, I am continuously dedicating myself to the profession, students, and parents.

Reflections

Last year when I was selected as the District's 2018 Teacher of the Year, I said that it was a "Sea-Splitting" moment. A moment that turned into a year of incredible opportunity and adventure at the classroom, school, district, community, and even state level. The title of TOTY wasn't just a title but an opportunity and a challenge for me to spread the importance of "shutting the back doors," not allowing students to slip away academically. As a mentor teacher over the last year, I maintained that theme for our new teachers as well, not wanting them to slip away either.

My role as TOTY allowed me to reflect on the role of teachers. Former President Obama once described how he stood in the White House with America's finest athletes, artists, public servants, and innovators but felt most proud in a room of America's best educators. Former President George Bush once described teachers as some of the nation's finest citizens who give their hearts and their careers to improving the lives of children. Wow! They were talking about every educator who has a heart for teaching.

It's all been so rewardingly overwhelming. We each have a story of how and why we became a teacher. I was so humbled by my selection as district TOTY that early on I questioned how I had even gotten to this point. I humbly smile as I reflect on how I came to the district so many years ago. I remember asking myself when I neared military retirement how I would continue to serve. I knew I wanted to teach. You see, thirteen and a half years ago, my life was about to change because serving had become my passion. My dream of serving children was becoming real. Retired and fully qualified, I joined the Richmond County School System as an elementary teacher. Now, instead of mentoring young soldiers for service, I now serve, by investing in and nurturing, future generations of servers, our students and our new teachers.

This past year was not a culminating point in my teaching career but rather an opportunity for me to continue spreading the passion of teaching. I've received an enormous amount of encouragement and support. I am grateful. Thank you. I pray that all of our "Teacher of the Year" honorees will find this to be their year of opportunity and adventure to help them to continue to "shut the back doors" of their students' academic lives. God bless all of you!

Dr. Dana Harris

Dr. Dana Harris is a retired educator-administrator who completed 37 honorable years of dedicated service in the educational arena. Throughout her early years in life she vibrantly recalls a powerful statement from her dad, who once said, "Find your passion and love what you do because if you don't, you might dread getting out of bed in the morning." To this very day, those same words continue to resonate in her heart and soul as she talks to aspiring individuals who are contemplating on a career in education. According to Dr. Harris, one of the most magical and transforming experiences of her life was the day she stepped into her 5th grade classroom over 42 years ago. Her decision to enter this profession was the result of having remarkable, dedicated and awe-inspiring teachers as a child. She knew early on that she wanted to help others discover the wonders that she had been shown. She furthermore asserted that without great teachers, schools would lack the cornerstone of greatness. Dr. Harris obtained a Bachelor of Science Degree from Delaware State College in 1976 and shortly thereafter continued her graduate studies obtaining a Masters' Degree from Augusta State College, a Specialist Degree from South Carolina State University and ultimately a Doctoral degree in Education Administration from Georgia Southern University in 2005. Her advice to those aspiring individuals is this, "Being a teacher is an amazing profession. Its challenging, dynamic, invigorating, and draining-but most of all, it is rewarding. Your impact extends far beyond anything you could possibly imagine. Never, ever minimize the role that you play. That role should be positive, possessing the qualities of a charismatic adult who not only touches the heart and minds of students, but also their spirits the way they see and feel about themselves for the rest of their lives. Such influence is truly a rare privilege that should be prized and nurtured."

Mr. Tim Spivey

Mr. Spivey is a product of the RCSS attending John Milledge, Tubman and graduating from The Academy of Richmond County in 1975. He attended South Georgia College and West Georgia College receiving his BS in 1980. He also earned his M.Ed. from Augusta College and Ed.S. from the University of South Carolina. He began his career in education in 1981 as a Physical Education teacher at Joseph Lamar with teaching stints at Windsor Spring Elementary, East Augusta Middle, Sue Reynolds and Richmond Academy. In reference to administration, Mr. Spivey was an AP at Westside High School from 1996 - 1999, Principal at Tutt Middle School from 1999-2002, Principal at Westside High School from 2002-2009, Principal at ARC from 2009-2012 and Deputy Superintendent from 2012 until his retirement on October 31, 2014. Mrs. Deborah M. Walker of Hephzibah is a retired high school principal who worked in the Richmond County School System for 34 years, including 24 years in the classroom and 10 years of administrative experience. She served as a mathematics teacher, department chairperson, assistant principal, and principal. She has also taught in the Upward Bound School Program at Paine College and the Adult Education Program held at Lucy C. Laney High School. Mrs. Walker received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Mathematics Education from the Fort Valley State College and Masters in Mathematics Education from South Carolina State University. A second Masters' Degree and her Specialist Degree in Educational Leadership and Instructional Supervision were earned from Augusta College. While she was principal, A. R. Johnson Health Science and Engineering Magnet School received numerous local, State and National recognitions. She has been married for 45½ years to her husband, Larry, and they have over 20 God-children and God-grandchildren. She is a member of Mount Calvary Baptist Church, Augusta, Georgia, where she has served continuously as musician and Music Coordinator for 42 years.

Dr. Jacqueline Fason

Dr. Jacqueline Fason of Augusta retired from the Richmond County School System in 2011. Dr. Fason started as a paraprofessional and was later hired as a teacher. She was promoted to Lead Teacher/Assistant Principal. Thirty-three years later, she retired from Jamestown Elementary School as Principal. Dr. Fason is a product of the Richmond County School System having graduated from George P. Butler High School. Dr. Fason received her Bachelors of Science Degree in Health and Physical Education from The Fort Valley State University, her Master's degree in Individual and Family Developmental Studies and a Master's degree in Rehabilitative Counseling from South Carolina State University. She received her Specialist in Curriculum and Instruction and a Doctorate in Educational Leadership from the University of Sarasota. Dr. Fason has taught in many schools in the district, and has worked under the leadership of many great administrators. Currently Dr. Fason serves as an Assistant Professor at Paine College where she is the Coordinator of Field and Clinical Experiences. Dr. Fason is a member of Mt. Calvary Baptist Church where she is Chief of the Usher's Ministry, and is also active in numerous other ministries of the church, as well as community organizations. She is the proud mother of one son and two lovely grandchildren.

Mrs. Jordel Rihl

Mrs. Jordel V. Rihl of Augusta has 46 years of experience in public education. As an employee of the Richmond County School System, she was a Resource Teacher, Title I Math Teacher, Title I Evaluator and Pre-K/Title I Consultant for 25 years. For six and a half years she was Director/Coordinator of Elementary Personnel. Mrs. Rihl earned her Bachelor's Degree at West Chester State University in Pennsylvania, Master's and Specialist's Degrees at Augusta State University. She is a past President of the CSRA Reading Association, an affiliate of the International Reading Association and a member of Delta Kappa Gamma Education Society. Mrs. Rihl is an active member of her church where she teaches four and five year old children. She has been married for 53 years to her husband Bob. They have one daughter, Dr. Laura Lee Joiner and three grandchildren. She enjoys gardening, baking, traveling and visiting with her grandchildren.

Dr. Peter Paige of Lincolnnton

Dr. Peter G. Paige of Lincolnnton has 37 years of experience in public education, including 11 years in the classroom and 26 years as a principal. Dr. Paige earned his Bachelor's Degree at the University of Minnesota, Master's Degree at Georgia Southern University and Doctorate at Georgia State University. Dr. Paige is a past President of the Georgia Elementary Principals Association and former member of GAEL's board of directors. While he was Principal, Warren Road Elementary School was recognized as a Georgia School of Excellence. Dr. Paige is an active member of his church in Lincolnnton, Georgia where he also plays the saxophone and sings in the choir. Dr. Paige retired as Assistant Professor at Troy University, Augusta in July, 2012.
